A TREMENDOUS DEMONSTRATION

Greeted Name of Bryan in the Denver Convention.

THE LONGEST ON RECORD

Long Pent-Up Enthusiasm of the Democratic Delegates Breaks Forth in a Whirlwind of Tribute Lasting Nearly an Hour and a Half.

SPECIAL TO THE DISPATCH.

Denver, July 9.—The third day's session of the democratic national convention was forty minutes late in getting down to business. Senator McCreary, of Kentucky, presented the report of the committee on permanent organization, naming Congressman Clayton, of Alabama, for permanent chairman. The report was adopted and Mr. Clayton delivered his address (which appears on the last page.) The resolutions committee has not yet completed its labors and proceedings may be delayed to await its report. Former Governor Francis, of Missouri, is now prominently mentioned as a vice presidential possibility.

SPECIAL TO THE DISPATCH.

At the conclusion of Clayton's speech several impromptu addresses were made and the convention took a recess until seven o'clock this evening, when the committee on resolutions will report.

Denver, July 9.—The Democratic national convention is marking time, so far as the nomination of candidates and the adoption of a platform is concerned, and is passing through the stages of organization and the throes of frenzied demonstrations. The day was marked chiefly by turbulent enthusiasm and the bitter strife of party leaders, the essential developments being these:

Two sessions of the convention were held, the first at noon, producing a Bryan demonstration breaking all records in duration, the second at 8 o'clock at night, bringing the culmination of the struggle over the credentials of the Pennsylvania delegation and the supremacy of the Pennsylvania leader, Colonel Guffey, who has been denounced by Mr. Bryan.

Outside of the convention the committees have proceeded with the serious work of preparing the way for convention action. The credentials committee unseated eight of Colonel Guffey's anti-Bryan Pennsylvania delegates, thus reversing the complexion of the Pennsylvania delegation from anti-Bryan to Bryan, and precipitating the intense controversy which was fought out before the night session of the convention.

The platform is still in an incomplete condition, but its essential features are agreed upon and little remains but the details of phraseology.

The early meeting of the convention was productive of little practical progress, as the principal committees were not ready to report. But it had the effect of the explosion of long pent-up Bryan enthusiasm, which took the signal from Senator Gore's eloquent reference to the Nebraska leader, and burst into a whirlwind of enthusiastic tribute, lasting 1 hour and 19 minutes, with 7 minutes more of the expiring echoes of clamor, establishing the convention record of 1 hour and 26 minutes, or full 89 minutes in excess of the Roosevelt demonstration at Chicago, which heretofore had held the record. It was a decisive exhibition of the overwhelming strength of the Bryan column, and one of the most dramatic convention pictures ever presented as the standards of the states were torn from their moorings and borne through the hall, until they stood together on the platform, like an army of banners proclaiming their united allegiance to Bryan.

Six Standards Rooted in Their Places.

Amid this storm of Bryan demonstration the six standards of New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Georgia, Minnesota and Connecticut stood rooted in their places, the rallying points of little groups unmoved by the frenzied scenes about them. Throughout the hour and nineteen minutes the deafening uproar continued, ebbing and flowing in intensity, women joining with the men in bearing the Bryan standards aloft, while the whole assemblage of 12,000 people joined in the tumultuous demonstration.

The remarkable Bryan demonstration occurred when Senator Gore, in an impromptu speech, mentioned the name of "Bryan." It was like a spark to powder.

The early session lasted three hours and then, worn out with exertion and lacking the material to proceed with business, the convention recessed until night.

At the night session of the convention, after an hour of speech-making, the committee on credentials reported on the Pennsylvania and other contested cases. A minority report on the Pennsylvania case resulted in an hour's acrimonious debate, after which the convention rejected the minority report, favorable to the Guffey faction, by the decisive vote of 415 to 387.

The majority report then was adopted by a viva voce vote. Great confusion followed the announcement of the result of the roll call, but, through the uproar filtered a motion to adjourn. It was seconded in a flash and carried with a shout, and delegates made for the doors.

The vote announced by the chairman showed a total of 1,062 votes cast—the full strength of the convention, including the absentees. It was evident that this was an error, as there were eleven absent.

As the vote was not close, however, it was decided to make no further announcement, but to declare the correct totals later.

BRYAN DEEPLY MOVED.

Demonstration at Denver Appreciated by Nebraskan.

Lincoln, Neb., July 9.—"The Democrats have been very good to me and I can find no words to express my deep appreciation of the confidence and good will which the demonstration indicates."

It was with these words that William Jennings Bryan, speaking to a number of newspaper men, acknowledged the remarkable demonstration given him by delegates to the Democratic national convention in Denver. That Mr. Bryan was deeply affected by the outburst was apparent in the gravity with which he uttered the sentiment quoted. One hour and twenty-seven minutes of delirious homage were pictured in crisp telegrams received at Fairview and the thrills of it showed in flashes in the eyes of the man to whom it was paid.

When the demonstration began Mr. Bryan and a dozen newspaper men, Robert F. Rose, who is Mr. Bryan's secretary, and the telegrapher on the bulletin wire occupied the sun room, as the glass enclosed porch is properly called. Five minutes—ten minutes passed with the wire clicking off details of the scene. The candidate in an alpaca office coat and vestless, smiled at the news, but left comments to his visitors. To a laughing question Mr. Bryan said:

"You credit me with too much influence with the convention."

"You wouldn't think so if you were there," exclaimed Arthur English, a West Virginian, who is an old friend of the Nebraskan and had just returned from Denver.

Private Wire Occupied His Time.

In his office in another part of the house a second wire removed from public gaze transacted such business as Mr. Bryan had with the delegates. This wire occupied much of his attention, and during most of the period of the demonstration he spent there with Mrs. Bryan and his daughter Grace, both of whom followed the rapidly arriving bulletins with keen interest and quick sympathy.

It was Secretary Rose's busy day, for he was constantly occupied in carrying the telegrams to his chief.

An hour passed and Mr. Bryan reappeared in the sun room. In his most solemn tones he started as if to make an important announcement, but concluded with an invitation for the entire party to adjourn to the shady side of the house and indulge in the destruction of a mighty watermelon, a gift from San Antonio, Tex. "I cannot speak in all this noise," he said, sweeping his arm in the general direction of the turbulence at Denver; "let us now participate in a watermelon."

Mr. Bryan officiated in dissecting the Texas prodigy and for a time politics was forgotten in favor of the refreshments.

It was as the reporters were about to leave that Mr. Bryan formally volunteered comment on the remarkable tribute that had been paid him. The last slice of watermelon had just been consumed by Judge Charles Guy of New York, a late arrival, when a flash announcing that the demonstration had subsided was received. That its tremendous force and remarkable duration had stirred the three time candidate in every fiber was apparent as he spoke. He thought deeply for a moment after finishing the statement, apparently on the verge of saying more, but turned and re-entered the house with the words unuttered.

HEAVY LOSS BY FIRE

Harbor Front of East Boston Swept by Flames.

ONE MAN BURNED TO DEATH

Watchman at Cunard Line Pier Is Missing—Property Valued at One Million, Five Hundred Thousand Dollars Destroyed.

Boston, July 9.—A fire, believed to have been caused by spontaneous combustion or a locomotive spark, and fanned by a brisk northwest wind, swept nearly a quarter of a mile of the harbor front of East Boston, causing a property loss estimated at nearly $1,500,000. Much of the loss falls upon the Boston and Albany railroad. One person was reported missing and it is thought that he perished in the flames. He was Daniel Sullivan, a watchman at the Cunard Line pier.

The fire was the biggest and most disastrous that has broken out along the harbor front from many years. The flames spread with remarkable rapidity and by the time the first fire-fighting apparatus arrived on the scene they were beyond control and leaping from pier to pier. Within half an hour of the time the fire was discovered, four piers, three warehouses, a grain elevator containing 30,000 bushels of grain, and many loaded freight cars had been destroyed. Several vessels and lighters narrowly escaped destruction.

The burned area includes piers 1 and 2 of the Grand Junction docks and the pier on which stood the big grain elevator, all owned by the Boston and Albany Railroad company, and used by the steamers of the Cunard line, and pier No. 6, owned by the Leyland line.

Laborers Raced for Life.

The piers destroyed were each about 800 feet long and from 200 to 300 feet wide. Piers 1, 2 and 6 were each covered by a large warehouse. Between piers 2 and 6 was the pier upon which the elevator stood. The fire started in the warehouse of pier 1, Grand Junction docks. In this building was stored an immense quantity of combustible material, including wool, Egyptian cotton, grease and oil. At the time there were about 100 laborers at work on the pier and with all of them it was a race for life.

In each of the warehouses destroyed there were many cars loaded with freight for export. All of these cars and their contents were destroyed. Between pier 6 and the pier of the Massachusetts Coal Wharf company a wide stretch of water intervened and here the fire was checked by the fireboats, harbor tugs and practically the entire strength of the Boston and Chelsea fire departments.

Several times the pier and coal packets were on fire, but the property was saved.

On account of the proximity of the fire to the East Boston Ferry slips, the ferry boats of the "Narrow Gauge" road suspended operations completely. Thousands of suburbanites could not reach their homes, nor could thousands of others who had been at the beach resorts return to the city until late at night.

HOLD UP SETTLERS.

Fanatical Dreamers Cause Trouble in Canada.

Winnipeg, Man., July 9.—Fanatical Dreamers from North Dakota have continued their march northward to join the Doukhobor colony at Yorktown, Sask. While en route the band, under the leadership of James Sharpe, is holding up settlers and others whom they meet on the trail, and demanding food from farmhouses. Inspector Tucker of the mounted police, who had been parleying with them, was held prisoner several hours with a rifle held to his head till a foraging party of Dreamers returned with food. A contingent of fifty mounted police expect to surround the band and disarm them without bloodshed, when all will be escorted to the boundary of North Dakota. Sharpe declares if an attempt is made to capture them all the band will die before surrendering. They defy the police in violent terms. Sharpe lived for years in Oklahoma.

Armed Men After Robbers.

New London, Wis., July 9.—Two hundred armed men under the direction of the sheriff are scouring the swamps in the vicinity of the Green Bay and Western depot in search of three men believed to have robbed the New London bank Tuesday night. What seemed to be an attempt of two of the men to murder their companion on the officers on their track, and an alarm was given which called half the men in town out on the chase.

PEARY LEAVES NEW YORK

Explorer Goes to Join His Vessel at Sydney, C. B.

New York, July 9.—Confident that his quest for the North Pole will be successful, Commander Robert E. Peary has left here for Sydney, C. B., where he will join his Arctic steamer, the Roosevelt, which left here Monday on the long journey to the Northern ice fields. Commander Peary will spend a day at his home in Portland, Me., and will then go on to Sydney, where he expects to arrive either next Monday or Tuesday. Before his departure the Arctic explorer thanked the press for its aid and support in his efforts to reach 90 degrees North. He said:

"I sincerely appreciate the interest and friendly attitude of the reputable press throughout the entire country. This moral support has distinctly helped in carrying me past the numerous dead centers of weariness and discouragement that have occurred in my efforts to secure the necessary funds for this expedition."

WILL MERGE INTERESTS.

Lumbermen of Yellow Pine Belt to Form Combine.

St. Louis, July 9.—Planning to merge their lumber interests into one great holding corporation capitalized at approximately $300,000,000, 100 wealthy lumbermen from the yellow pine belt of the South and Middle West met here and adopted an organization plan looking toward that end. F. E. Weyerhaeuser of St. Paul, son of the multi-millionaire lumberman, was appointed chairman of the permanent organization committee which is to work out the details of the organization, the financing and the drafting of a charter and the legal phases of the plan.

Rebels Attack Town of Cholulaca.

Tegucigalpa, Honduras, July 9.—Armed revolutionists from Salvador, after capturing the town of Gracias, attacked Cholulaca, the capital of the department of the same name, which lies about seventy miles south-southwest of Tegucigalpa. The residents of Cholulaca strongly resisted, holding back the revolutionists for three days. Volunteer forces in large numbers are now on their way to both Gracias and Cholulaca to assist in driving back the insurgents, who it is said, have proclaimed Manuel Bonilla president.

Child Burned to Death.

Willow River, Minn., July 8.—Peter Weisse's residence, three miles east of here and occupied by George Rhomberg, was totally destroyed by fire. Mr. Rhomberg's four-year-old son and only child perished in the flames. Mr. and Mrs. Rhomberg were working on the farm near the house when they discovered the flames, but too late to save their child or furniture.

Carved by a Maniac.

Bluefield, W. Va., July 9.—Suddenly going insane on a train at Bondtown, Va., Dan Cloves of Bigstone Gap, Va., reached over to the seat in front of him and cut James Sturgill's throat from ear to ear. Then he turned the razor on himself and made two severe wounds in his own throat.

Woman Burned to Death.

Yew York, July 9.—One woman, Mary Smith, was burned to death, two others were seriously hurt and more than twenty women and children were rescued by firemen during a fire in the four-story apartment house at 180 East Eightieth street.

HITCHCOCK SELECTED

Chosen as Manager of Judge Taft's Campaign.

NEW YORK MAN TREASURER

Election of George R. Sheldon to That Office Comes as a Surprise and is Accompanied by an Element of Mystery.

Hot Springs, Va., July 9.—Frank H. Hitchcock of Massachusetts, chairman of the Republican national committee and manager of the national campaign; George R. Sheldon of New York, treasurer of the national committee, and Arthur I. Vorys of Ohio, member of the national committee in charge of the Ohio Republican headquarters, which are to be in Cincinnati. This was the result of the meeting of the executive committee of the Republican national committee here.

All of the eight members of the executive committee were present and their report was unanimous. The entire action of the committee was an approval of the recommendations of William H. Taft, the nominee of the Republican party for the presidency, who presided at the meeting.

The selection of Mr. Hitchcock as chairman was expected, as the presence here of all the factions of the party who would be likely to make a fight against his appointment had not developed any purpose to oppose his selection. He was known to be the choice of Mr. Taft, and several of those who had been called in consultation with Mr. Taft subordinated their personal preferences in deference to the wishes of the presidential nominee in the selection of the man who is to manage his campaign.

The designation of Mr. Vorys to be in charge of the national campaign in Ohio is regarded as a solution of the embarrassment arising from the selection of Mr. Hitchcock in preference to Mr. Vorys. By this arrangement the campaign in Ohio will be in a sense separate from the balance of the country. Vorys will be accountable only to Mr. Taft.

The appointment of Mr. Sheldon as treasurer was a surprise and was accompanied by an element of mystery.

Centered Upon McKinley.

Preceding the meeting of the executive committee, discussion of the treasurership had centered upon Representative McKinley of Illinois, treasurer of the Republican congressional committee. It was generally believed by the leaders of the party who have been here to consult with Mr. Taft that he desired to have Mr. McKinley serve as treasurer of the national committee and had practically told him that he would have to submit to be "drafted" for that position, and the name of George R. Sheldon had not previously been canvassed in the many conferences in relation to the treasurership.

This was the situation, so far as known, when William Nelson Cromwell arrived and it was announced that he had a candidate to propose, having telegraphed ahead, requesting that no selection be made pending his arrival. The committee met at noon, but twenty minutes elapsed before the last member arrived. About an hour and twenty minutes later the report of the committee signed by all the members was made public.

It is stated that Mr. Sheldon's appointment was upon the recommendation of Mr. Cornelius N. Bliss, treasurer of the committee since 1892. It is also stated that his selection has the approval of President Roosevelt, with whom he was a classmate at Harvard. Mr. Sheldon is a close personal friend of Mr. Bliss, whose counsel will be at his command relating to campaign funds.

His appointment is also regarded as bringing the question of the publicity of campaign funds into the campaign with the same force that would apply were there a national law, as it is said the laws of New York state will govern his actions in relation to the national campaign. This declaration was made in a statement issued by the executive committee concerning Mr. Sheldon's appointment.

Mr. McKinley accepted the result smilingly, never having actually been a candidate for the place.

The committee did not appoint an assistant treasurer, as that selection will be left to the treasurer, but it is understood Mr. McKinley will be named for the position, with headquarters in Chicago.

THE LONGEST ON RECORD

Long Pent-Up Enthusiasm of the Democratic Delegates Breaks Forth in a Whirlwind of Tribute Lasting Nearly an Hour and a Half.

Carved by a Maniac.

Bluefield, W. Va., July 9.—Suddenly going insane on a train at Bondtown, Va., Dan Clowes of Bigstone Gap, Va., reached over to the seat in front of him and cut James Sturgill's throat from ear to ear. Then he turned the razor on himself and made two severe wounds in his own throat.

Woman Burned to Death.

New York, July 9.—One woman, Mary Smith, was burned to death, two others were seriously hurt and more than twenty women and children were rescued by firemen during a fire in the four-story apartment house at 180 East Eightieth street.

HITCHCOCK SELECTED

Chosen as Manager of Judge Taft's Campaign.

NEW YORK MAN TREASURER

Election of George R. Sheldon to That Office Comes as a Surprise and is Accompanied by an Element of Mystery.

Hot Springs, Va., July 9.—Frank H. Hitchcock of Massachusetts, chairman of the Republican national committee and manager of the national campaign; George R. Sheldon of New York, treasurer of the national committee, and Arthur I. Vorys of Ohio, member of the national committee in charge of the Ohio Republican headquarters, which are to be in Cincinnati. This was the result of the meeting of the executive committee of the Republican national committee here.

All of the eight members of the executive committee were present and their report was unanimous. The entire action of the committee was an approval of the recommendations of William H. Taft, the nominee of the Republican party for the presidency, who presided at the meeting.

The selection of Mr. Hitchcock as chairman was expected, as the presence here of all the factions of the party who would be likely to make a fight against his appointment had not developed any purpose to oppose his selection. He was known to be the choice of Mr. Taft, and several of those who had been called in consultation with Mr. Taft subordinated their personal preferences in deference to the wishes of the presidential nominee in the selection of the man who is to manage his campaign.

The designation of Mr. Vorys to be in charge of the national campaign in Ohio is regarded as a solution of the embarrassment arising from the selection of Mr. Hitchcock in preference to Mr. Vorys. By this arrangement the campaign in Ohio will be in a sense separate from the balance of the country. Vorys will be accountable only to Mr. Taft.

The appointment of Mr. Sheldon as treasurer was a surprise and was accompanied by an element of mystery.

Centered Upon McKinley.

Preceding the meeting of the executive committee, discussion of the treasurership had centered upon Representative McKinley of Illinois, treasurer of the Republican congressional committee. It was generally believed by the leaders of the party who have been here to consult with Mr. Taft that he desired to have Mr. McKinley serve as treasurer of the national committee and had practically told him that he would have to submit to be "drafted" for that position, and the name of George R. Sheldon had not previously been canvassed in the many conferences in relation to the treasurership.

This was the situation, so far as known, when William Nelson Cromwell arrived and it was announced that he had a candidate to propose, having telegraphed ahead, requesting that no selection be made pending his arrival. The committee met at noon, but twenty minutes elapsed before the last member arrived. About an hour and twenty minutes later the report of the committee signed by all the members was made public.

It is stated that Mr. Sheldon's appointment was upon the recommendation of Mr. Cornelius N. Bliss, treasurer of the committee since 1892. It is also stated that his selection has the approval of President Roosevelt, with whom he was a classmate at Harvard. Mr. Sheldon is a close personal friend of Mr. Bliss, whose counsel will be at his command relating to campaign funds.

His appointment is also regarded as bringing the question of the publicity of campaign funds into the campaign with the same force that would apply were there a national law, as it is said the laws of New York state will govern his actions in relation to the national campaign. This declaration was made in a statement issued by the executive committee concerning Mr. Sheldon's appointment.

Mr. McKinley accepted the result smilingly, never having actually been a candidate for the place.

The committee did not appoint an assistant treasurer, as that selection will be left to the treasurer, but it is understood Mr. McKinley will be named for the position, with headquarters in Chicago.

The Information Contained in This Citizen's Statement is Priceless

The hale, the hearty, the strong cannot afford to toss this paper to one side im-
patiently when they read the following,
but any sufferer in Brainerd who has suffered hours of torture caused by kidney complaint will stand in his own
light if he does not follow the valuable advice offered here.

Mrs. J. H. Zellers, of 915 Main St., Brainerd, Minn., says: "Before using Doan's Kidney Pills I suffered for six months from my kidneys. The secretions were badly discolored and I also suffered from a heavy pain across the small of my back. A box of Doan's Kidney Pills were procured for me at
H. P. Dunn's drug store, I took them,
and a cure resulted. I can truthfully
say that I have not had a symptom
since. On October 28th, 1904, six years
after giving the above statement, Mrs.
Zellers said: 'I am just as pleased to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills today
as I was in 1898. I have not had an attack of kidney trouble since they cured
me.'"

JAMES M. GUFFEY.

RESOLUTIONS COMMITTEE.

Hard at Work on Various Planks of
the Platform.

Denver, July 9.—After reaching an agreement on a plank on the question
of the injunction and announcing the
fact, the sub-committee of the subcommittee on platform having that subject in charge failed to supply the
full committee with the document,
and thus caused a suspension of the
entire proceedings on that question.
Not only did the sub-committee fail
to present its report, but neither Mr.
Williams nor Mr. Sullivan of the subcommittee put in an appearance at the committee meeting. There was much discussion by the labor leaders of the injunction plank, and while it was asserted that the officers of the Federation of Labor were satisfied with the
plank, other representatives of labor
made loud protest against the omission of the provision demanding notice
in advance in injunction proceedings.

It was announced that the full subcommittee had passed upon all but
three or four subjects to be dealt with,
and members of the sub-committee
expressed full confidence that the subcommittees would be able to present
a complete report when the full committee again meets.

The sub-committee spent the first half of the day in discussing suggestions by Mr. Bryan and others relative to planks in the platform, but soon decided that in order to make progress it would be necessary to divide the work and consequently subcommittees of the sub-committee were appointed on various subjects, including injunctions, trusts, railroads, resources of the country, tariff, etc.

Consisted of Three Members.

These minor sub-committees consisted
in all cases of three members and the remainder of the day was spent largely by them in consultations over the various subjects. There were, however, some questions upon which the full sub-committee found it possible to pass, and these included the publicity
of campaign contributions, relative to
which a strong plank was adopted.
The committee also adopted various other suggestions, among them being planks demanding the enactment of an income tax law, providing for the restriction of Oriental immigration,
denouncing what the committee
termed President Roosevelt's "perpetuation of his dynasty," etc.

The sub-committee on tariff found
little difficulty in reaching a conclusion. This committee consisted of Messrs. Pettigrew of South Dakota,
Brown of Nebraska and Alschuler of Illinois. The committee recommended
the adoption of a comprehensive plank
on the tariff, including among others,
a provision for free print paper, free
wood pulp, lumber, logs, etc. No definite announcement on the question of the Philippine tariff relative to sugar
was made by the sub-committee.

A number of planks from the Nebraska state platform were accepted
practically as they appeared in that document. Among them were those embodying:

Approval of the anti-pass and anti-
rebate laws; prohibiting corporations
from making campaign contributions;
the election of United States senators
by direct vote of the people; recommending a constitutional amendment
permitting an income tax; the enlargement of the power of railroad
commissions, state and national; favoring postal savings banks, the eight-
hour day; the adjustment of disputes
between labor and capital; urging an employers' liability bill applicable to both public and private employers,
and recommending the admission of Arizona and New Mexico as separate
states.

A Lucky Herdman.

A curious legend attaches to the discovery of the marble of which Ephesus
was built. Two rams of a herdman named Pixodorus fought while feeding on a hill. One of them in the contest with his horn broke a crust of the whitest marble. The peasant running to his Ephesian fellow citizens
with the specimen, his prize was received with applause, and his name
was changed to "Evangelus" (Giver of Glad Tidings), and the stone being excavated for Diana's temple, divine honors were subsequently paid to him!

Making and Saving Money

No valuable thing comes easy.
A fat bank account is a cheerful thing to contemplate, but
to secure it is no snap. No man can accumulate without
using the services of a good
bank, and there is where we come in. We help in the saving process, we make it easy
and convenient to save and we encourage the habit by paying you for doing it. If you have not opened an account yet,
begin next pay day. Get a start, if only with a five dollar
bill or open a savings account,
which requires only $1.00 for the first deposit. You owe it to your family and yourself to save something.

BIDS

Bids will be received up to July 18, 1908 at 3 P. M., for building of bank block as per plans and specifications on file at Citizens State Bank, Brainerd, Minn.

OF UNTOLD VALUE

The Information Contained in This
Citizen's Statement is Priceless

The hale, the hearty, the strong cannot afford to toss this paper to one side im-
patiently when they read the following,
but any sufferer in Brainerd who has
suffered hours of torture caused by
kidney complaint will stand in his own
light if he does not follow the valuable
advice offered here.

Mrs. J. H. Zellers, of 915 Main St.,
Brainerd, Minn., says: "Before using Doan's Kidney Pills I suffered for six months from my kidneys. The secre-
tions were badly discolored and I also
suffered from a heavy pain across the small of my back. A box of Doan's Kidney Pills were procured for me at
H. P. Dunn's drug store, I took them,
and a cure resulted. I can truthfully
say that I have not had a symptom
since. On October 28th, 1904, six years
after giving the above statement, Mrs.
Zellers said: 'I am just as pleased to
recommend Doan's Kidney Pills today
as I was in 1898. I have not had an attack of kidney trouble since they cured
me.'"

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doans—and take no other.

RESOLUTIONS COMMITTEE.

Hard at Work on Various Planks of
the Platform.

Denver, July 9.—After reaching an agreement on a plank on the question
of the injunction and announcing the
fact, the sub-committee of the sub-
committee on platform having that
subject in charge failed to supply the
full committee with the document,
and thus caused a suspension of the
entire proceedings on that question.
Not only did the sub-committee fail
to present its report, but neither Mr.
Williams nor Mr. Sullivan of the subcommittee put in an appearance at the committee meeting. There was much discussion by the labor leaders of the injunction plank, and while it was asserted that the officers of the Federation of Labor were satisfied with the
plank, other representatives of labor
made loud protest against the omission of the provision demanding notice
in advance in injunction proceedings.

It was announced that the full sub-
committee had passed upon all but
three or four subjects to be dealt with,
and members of the sub-committee
expressed full confidence that the sub-
committees would be able to present
a complete report when the full committee again meets.

The sub-committee spent the first
half of the day in discussing suggestions by Mr. Bryan and others relative to planks in the platform, but soon decided that in order to make progress it would be necessary to divide the work and consequently sub-
committees of the sub-committee were
appointed on various subjects, including injunctions, trusts, railroads, resources of the country, tariff, etc.

Consisted of Three Members.

These minor sub-committees consisted
in all cases of three members and the remainder of the day was spent largely by them in consultations over the various subjects. There were, however, some questions upon which the
full sub-committee found it possible to
pass, and these included the publicity
of campaign contributions, relative to
which a strong plank was adopted.
The committee also adopted various
other suggestions, among them being
planks demanding the enactment of
an income tax law, providing for the
restriction of Oriental immigration,
denouncing what the committee
termed President Roosevelt's "per-
petuation of his dynasty," etc.

The sub-committee on tariff found
little difficulty in reaching a conclusion. This committee consisted of Messrs. Pettigrew of South Dakota,
Brown of Nebraska and Alschuler of Illinois. The committee recommended
the adoption of a comprehensive plank
on the tariff, including among others,
a provision for free print paper, free
wood pulp, lumber, logs, etc. No definite announcement on the question of the Philippine tariff relative to sugar
was made by the sub-committee.

A number of planks from the Nebraska state platform were accepted
practically as they appeared in that document. Among them were those
embodying:

Approval of the anti-pass and anti-
rebate laws; prohibiting corporations
from making campaign contributions;
the election of United States senators
by direct vote of the people; recommending a constitutional amendment
permitting an income tax; the enlargement of the power of railroad
commissions, state and national; favoring postal savings banks, the eight-
hour day; the adjustment of disputes
between labor and capital; urging an
employers' liability bill applicable to
both public and private employers,
and recommending the admission of Arizona and New Mexico as separate
states.

A Lucky Herdman.

A curious legend attaches to the discovery of the marble of which Ephesus
was built. Two rams of a herdman named Pixodoros fought while feeding on a hill. One of them in the contest with his horn broke a crust of
the whitest marble. The peasant running to his Ephesian fellow citizens
with the specimen, his prize was received with applause, and his name
was changed to "Evangelus" (Giver of Glad Tidings), and the stone being excavated for Diana's temple, divine
honors were subsequently paid to him.

Making and Saving Money

No valuable thing comes easy.
A fat bank account is a cheerful thing to contemplate, but
to secure it is no snap. No
man can accumulate without
using the services of a good
bank, and there is where we come in. We help in the saving process, we make it easy
and convenient to save and we encourage the habit by paying
you for doing it. If you have
not opened an account yet,
begin next pay day. Get a
start, if only with a five dollar
bill or open a savings account,
which requires only $1.00 for
the first deposit. You owe it
to your family and yourself to
save something.

CARNIVAL CLOSES THIS EVENING

Perfect Weather Has Aided in Making Carnival Most Successful Ever Held

WELL PATRONIZED LAST NIGHT Everyone Seemed Well Satisfied With the Attractions and Enjoyed Themselves

The clerk of the weather is certainly on the side of the Park Improvement association. No one could ask for better weather than has prevailed during the past four days. Perhaps it has been a trifle too warm for comfort in the afternoon, but the evenings were delightful out of doors and not uncomfortable in most of the tents. The street was crowded last night and the shows were all well patronized. Tonight is the closing night and all who have not seen the attractions should be on hand. Two shows in particular every child in the city should see, they are the model city and the glass blowers, and are worthy of more than one visit as a matter of education. The same can also be said of the animal circus.

The committee in charge of the carnival is well pleased with the attendance so far and it is expected that the attendance tonight will equal if not eclipse that of any evening. There are so many attractions that it is impossible for a person to see all where all in one evening and many who were in attendance the last two nights will be on hand again tonight. The manager of one of the shows remarked to a Dispatch representative that Brainerd's afternoon attendance was light but that everybody was there in the evening. This is doubtless because there is a much smaller attendance from the country than is the case in older agricultural communities where many of the farmers are wealthy and all in comfortable circumstances.

Corr Beckwith gave her first exhibition as a swimmer last evening and is certainly fine. She floated ten or fifteen minutes in a perfectly horizontal position on the water. It is claimed that she once did this for 12 hours a day forty days on a scientific test. The animal show was also especially well patronized and the work of the trained steers, trained dogs and mule are fine. The crowning feature, however, is the work of the razorback hogs. They work on a teeter, climb ladders, shoot the shutes and indulge in a mimic battle.

A Lazy Liver

May be only a tired liver, or a starved liver. It would be a stupid as well as a savage thing to beat a weary or starved man because he lagged in his work. So in treating the lagging, torpid liver it is a great mistake to lash it with strong drastic drugs. A torpid liver is but an indication of an ill-nourished, enfeebled body whose organs are weary with overwork. Start with the stomach and allied organs of digestion and nutrition. Put them in working order and see how quickly your liver will become active. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has made many marvelous cures of "liver trouble" by its wonderful control of the organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores the normal activity of the stomach, increases the secretions of the blood-making glands, cleanses the system from poisonous accumulations, and so relieves the liver of the burdens imposed upon it by the defection of other organs.

If you have bitter or bad taste in the morning, poor or variable appetite, coated tongue, foul breath, constipated or irregular bowels, feel weak, easily tired, frequent headaches, pain or distress in small of back, gnawing or distressed feeling in stomach, perhaps nausea, or "rising" in throat after eating, and know the symptoms of weak stomach and more promptly or cure your liver more promptly than Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Perhaps only a part of the above symptoms will be present at one time and yet point to torpid liver or biliousness and weak stomach. Avoid all hot bread and biscuits, griddle cakes and other indigestible food and take the "Golden Medical Discovery" regularly and stick to its use until you are vigorous and strong.

The "Discovery" is non-secret, non-alcoholic, is a glyceric extract of native medicinal roots with a full list of its ingredients printed on each bottle, wrapper and attested under oath. Its ingredients are endorsed and extolled by the most eminent medical writers of the age and are recommended to cure the diseases for which it is advised. Don't accept a substitute of unknown composition for this non-secret MEDICINE.

South Side	9	3	6	333
Crescents	9	1	8	111

Another ragged game was played last evening, this time between N. E. Brainerd and the South Side—the South Side playing with only seven men. This game causes figures to show a peculiarity in the percentage column. Score by inning:

N. E. Brainerd..... 6 1 0 3 x—10
South Side..... 0 1 0 0 —1
Base on balls: off Witham, 6; off Davidson, 5; two-base hits: Ed. Smith, J. Witham; struck out: by Davidson, 4; by Witham, 6. Umpire—Quinn Parker; scorer—Manville; time of game 1 hour and 15 minutes.

The next games will be played between the North Star Juniors and the N. P. teams and is scheduled for Friday night. On this game will depend somewhat the possibility of whi a team will be first. The North Star base ball team will go to Little Falls Sunday to play the team at that place.

POTATOMATO VINES.

Scientist Grows Potatoes and Tomatoes on Same Plant.

Alfred Soderman, connected with the state agricultural commission of Massachusetts, is growing potatoes and tomatoes on the same vine at the experiment station in Worcester, Mass. This is the culmination of experiments that he has been making for years. Last February Mr. Soderman grafted Lorillard tomato plants to potato vines and now has a number of double plants. Above ground are found tomato plants loaded with tomatoes, while in the ground are potatoes the size of an egg.

Novel Vacation For Boys.

The youths belonging to the congregation of the Pitman M. E. church in New Brunswick, N. J., have given up all athletic sports for the summer and pledged their available time to the Rev. Herbert J. Belting, pastor of the church, in the work of excavating for the foundation for the new church that the Pitmanites are to build this year. Led by the pastor, they will dig overalls, strip off their coats, swing picks and handle shovels. In addition Mr. Belting has agreed to give all his wedding fees for the next two years to help pay for the new edifice. Mrs. Belting is willing to forego the extra pocket money for the church benefit.

ROOSEVELT'S BIG HUNT.

President's Son Kermit Tells of Trip Into African Wilds.

President Roosevelt received the other day at Sagamore Hill, his home at Oyster Bay, N. Y., S. S. McClure, representing the McClure publications, and Caspar Whitney, editor of Outing. These, like many other editors and publishers, are eager to make contracts with the president for stories of the big game hunt he will start immediately his administration of the affairs of the republic closes.

Mr. Roosevelt has received offers from every part of the country and some foreign offers for his own story of his hunt in Africa, and competition for his writings about this plunge into the wild has become so keen that it has been said that he could close contracts which would make Rudyard Kipling seem a mere penny a liner and cause Thackeray, Dickens and some others to turn in their graves.

No contract was closed, however, despite the visit and the entertainment of Messrs. McClure and Whitney.

Kermit Roosevelt, now a youth of twenty of a serious bent of mind, said that he would accompany his father in the African hunt. With two big grips he ambled from a buckboard driven by the president's coachman, Joe Washington, across the station at Oyster Bay to the 6:15 train. In the smoker he rammed a snub nosed pipe full of tobacco, pushed back the front of his panama and settled down to steady comfort.

"I'm going with father on the African hunt," he said to a New York Times reporter, "and will be away a whole year. The arrangements for the hunt have not yet been made. So far as I know, father has not made any contracts for writing about the hunt, although he has had many offers from everywhere. We will get away as soon as possible and will be out of touch with civilization for all of a year."

"Are you used to the handling of magazine rides and heavy guns for such a hunt as you will join in?" he was asked.

"Oh, yes," he replied.
"Father, you know," he remarked, "is never happy unless he is working, and this hunt in Africa will produce practical results. He intends to seek and kill game that will prove of value to the world. He will send back the skeletons and skins of such game to some museum so that they may be mounted."

"An American museum?"

"Yes," he replied. "We will have along with us a professor from some museum who will look after the preparation of the carcasses and their shipment out of Africa."

"Which museum is likely to get the benefits of the hunt?" was asked.

"Probably either the Smithsonian or the New York Museum of Natural History," answered Kermit.

"Will any one arrange for connection with the outside world while you and your father are in the African wilds?" asked the reporter.

"No," he said. "We will be lost to civilization for a year."

"So long," he added cheerily. "I'm going up state on a visit to the Genesee valley. Good luck."

Present Incumbent Desirable

EDITOR DISPATCH:
In a recent number of the Dispatch there was a communication recommending A. Kneiff, of Bay Lake, as a candidate for County Supt. of schools. As an experienced teacher and especially interested in the advancement of rural school education, I would ask space for a few remarks on this subject.

Personally, I do not believe in life-tenure of public office, but the principle of limited term of office does not necessarily imply continual change of incumbent. It does not imply that "the sweets of official power" are to be distributed as widely as possible; but it is, fundamentally, as I understand it, that the door to public service be kept open to all, to the end that the public may secure the best possible service thru the progressive development of individual talent and other desirable and necessary qualifications. It gives the public an opportunity frequently to review, or measure up the official service they are getting and if not up to their ideal look up another until the majority succeed in getting the right person in the right place. (This does happen once in a while.) In some departments of public service a change of incumbent is a serious affair. Especially is this so in regard to schools. One of the great hindrances to effective influence of rural schools is the continual changing of teachers. The most important effect of early education the development of character, is thus nullified, the influence of one teacher frequently neutralizing that of the preceding in some phase or another. This does not necessarily imply any particular weakness or immoral defect in either. And a change in the superintendency of schools, where the present incumbent has a definite and decided influence in the work of the teachers that has been generally satisfactory, would be as much more serious as the school enrollment of the county is to the enrollment of one average school.

Crow Wing county has been fortunate in securing for a long time a man peculiarly fitted for this office by literary qualification, long experience in educational work in both city and rural schools, in thoro sympathy and appreciation of the needs of country life; and by exceptional tact and temperament and sound judgment in the conduct of examinations, summer schools and teacher's meetings, and in the settlement of district disputes. Thru his tenure of this office in the past he has thoro acquaintance with the history and present circumstances of every school district, and largely with the personnel of every school board. On educational principles he is a conservative radical; ever on the alert for progressive ideas of merit, but zealous to retain all that is practical and sound in principle of older methods that he knows by experience and believes to be as well adapted to rural schools today as in his earlier life.

I do not write this with the idea of discouraging the candidacy of Mr. Kneiff, or any other person who believes himself qualified for the position. Neither do I write in the personal interests of J. A. Wilson. Although in my relations with him as a teacher the past 4 years, I hold him in high estimation as an educator and a citizen, I should not advocate continuing him in office merely for what he has done if there were not reasonable evidence that satisfactory service shall be continued. I write to call on the voters of the county to deliberate the question seriously with themselves and their neighbors, keeping the cause of rural school education only before their minds. Try and think of what they know Mr. Wilson to have done or is doing; try and think whether he would be likely to continue his efforts to improve the schools and the quality of teaching or whether he would be likely to let things slide; then try and think what a new man could do for a long time, however well qualified with literary preparation.

I have not talked with Mr. Wilson for some months and never on this subject; but if he should succeed himself I have no hesitation in asserting that his re-election would most assure the continued advancement of rural school education in Crow Wing county, let his competitor or competitors be who they may.

CARNIVAL CLOSES THIS EVENING

Perfect Weather Has Aided in Making Carnival Most Successful Ever Held

WELL PATRONIZED LAST NIGHT

Everyone Seemed Well Satisfied
With the Attractions and Enjoyed Themselves

The clerk of the weather is certainly on the side of the Park Improvement association. No one could ask for better weather than has prevailed during the past four days. Perhaps it has been a trifle too warm for comfort in the afternoon, but the evenings were delightful out of doors and not uncomfortable in most of the tents. The street was crowded last night and the shows were all well patronized. Tonight is the closing night and all who have not seen the attractions should be on hand. Two shows in particular every child in the city should see, they are the model city and the glass blowers, and are worthy of more than one visit as a matter of education. The same can also be said of the animal circus.

The committee in charge of the carnival is well pleased with the attendance so far and it is expected that the attendance tonight will equal if not eclipse that of any evening. There are so many attractions that it is impossible for a person to see all where all in one evening and many who were in attendance the last two nights will be on hand again tonight. The manager of one of the shows remarked to a Dispatch representative that Brainerd's afternoon attendance was light but that everybody was there in the evening. This is doubtless because there is a much smaller attendance from the country than is the case in older agricultural communities where many of the farmers are wealthy and all in comfortable circumstances.

Cora Beckwith gave her first exhibition as a swimmer last evening and is certainly fine. She floated ten or fifteen minutes in a perfectly horizontal position on the water. It is claimed that she once did this for 12 hours a day forty days on a scientific test.

The animal show was also especially well patronized and the work of the trained steers, trained dogs and mule are fine. The crowning feature, however, is the work of the razorback hogs. They work on a teeter, climb ladders, shoot the shutes and indulge in a mimic battle.

Any pain stopped in 20 minutes sure. Dr. Shoop's Pink Pain Tablets quickly stop headache, pains of women, etc., 20 tablets 25c. Sold by H. P. Dunn, tt

A Lazy Liver

May be only a tired liver, or a starved liver. It would be a stupid as well as a savage thing to beat a weary or starved man because he lagged in his work. So in treating the lagging, torpid liver it is a great mistake to lash it with strong drastic drugs. A torpid liver is but an indication of an ill-nourished, enfeebled body whose organs are weary with overwork. Start with the stomach and allied organs of digestion and nutrition. Put them in working order and see how quickly your liver will become active. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has made many marvelous cures of "liver trouble" by its wonderful control of the organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores the normal activity of the stomach, increases the secretions of the blood-making glands, cleanses the system from poisonous accumulations, and so relieves the liver of the burdens imposed upon it by the defection of other organs.

If you have bitter or bad taste in the morning, poor or variable appetite, coated tongue, foul breath, constipation or irregular bowels, feel weak, easily tired, dependent, frequent headaches, pain or distress in "small of back," gnawing or distressed feeling in stomach, perhaps nausea, or "sour risings" in throat after eating, and kindred symptoms of weak stomach and torpid liver, no medicine will relieve you more promptly or cure you more permanently than Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Perhaps only a part of the above symptoms will be present at one time and yet point to torpid liver or biliousness and weak stomach. Avoid all hot bread and biscuits, griddle cakes and other indigestible food and take the "Golden Medical Discovery" regularly and stick to its use until you are vigorous and strong. The "Discovery" is non-secret, non-alcoholic, is a glyceric extract of native medicinal roots with a full list of its ingredients printed on each bottle wrapper and attested under oath. Its ingredients are endorsed and extolled by the most eminent medical writers of the age and are recommended to cure the diseases for which it is advised. Don't accept a substitute of unknown composition for this non-secret MEDICINE OF KNOWN COMPOSITION.

South Side	9	3	6	.333
Crescents	9	1	8	.111

Another ragged game was played last evening, this time between N. E. Brainerd and the South Side—the South Side playing with only seven men. This game causes figures to show a peculiarity in the percentage column. Score by inning:

N. E. Brainerd.....6 1 0 3 x—10
South Side.....0 1 0 0 0—1

Base on balls: off Witham, 6; off Davidson, 5; two-base hits: Ed. Smith, J. Witham; struck out: by Davidson, 4; by Witham, 6. Umpire—Quinn Parker; scorer—Manville; time of game 1 hour and 15 minutes.

The next games will be between the North Star Juniors and the N. P. teams and is scheduled for Friday night. On this game will depend somewhat the possibility of which team will be first. The North Star base ball team will go to Little Falls Sunday to play the team at that place.

ROOSEVELT'S BIG HUNT.

President's Son Kermit Tells of Trip Into African Wilds.

President Roosevelt received the other day at Sagamore Hill, his home at Oyster Bay, N. Y., S. S. McClure, representing the McClure publications, and Caspar Whitney, editor of Outing. These, like many other editors and publishers, are eager to make contracts with the president for stories of the big game hunt he will start immediately his administration of the affairs of the republic closes.

Mr. Roosevelt has received offers from every part of the country and some foreign offers for his own story of his hunt in Africa, and competition for his writings about this plunge into the wild has become so keen that it has been said that he could close contracts which would make Rudyard Kipling seem a mere penny a liner and cause Thackeray, Dickens and some others to turn in their graves.

No contract was closed, however, despite the visit and the entertainment of Messrs. McClure and Whitney.

Kermit Roosevelt, now a youth of twenty of a serious bent of mind, said that he would accompany his father in the African hunt. With two big grips he ambled from a buckboard driven by the president's coachman, Joe Washington, across the station at Oyster Bay to the 6:15 train. In the smoker he rammed a snub nosed pipe full of tobacco, pushed back the front of his panama and settled down to steady comfort.

"I'm going with father on the African hunt," he said to a New York Times reporter, "and will be away a whole year. The arrangements for the hunt have not yet been made. So far as I know, father has not made any contracts for writing about the hunt, although he has had many offers from everywhere. We will get away as soon as possible and will be out of touch with civilization for all of a year."

"Are you used to the handling of magazine rifles and heavy guns for such a hunt as you will join in?" he was asked.

"Oh, yes," he replied. "Father, you know," he remarked, "is never happy unless he is working, and this hunt in Africa will produce practical results. He intends to seek and kill game that will prove of value to the world. He will send back the skeletons and skins of such game to some museum so that they may be mounted."

"An American museum?"

"Yes," he replied. "We will have along with us a professor from some museum who will look after the preparation of the carcasses and their shipment out of Africa."

"Which museum is likely to get the benefits of the hunt?" was asked.

"Probably either the Smithsonian or the New York Museum of Natural History," answered Kermit.

"Will any one arrange for connection with the outside world while you and your father are in the African wilds?" asked the reporter.

"No," he said. "We will be lost to civilization for a year." "So long," he added cheerily. "I'm going up state on a visit to the Genesee valley. Good luck."

BRainerd FRIDAY JULY 10th

Dr. Gates needs no introduction to the people of Brainerd. His marvelous achievements in permanently curing thousands of heretofore incurable diseases, proclaim him the greatest doctor of ancient or modern times. His remarkable cures of all diseases that the human family is heir to, have spread his fame abroad. Men, women and children are taken into his sanatorium on crutches, in wheel-chairs, to leave their supports behind them when they depart—free of pain and in robust health. As a diagnostician Dr. Gates is practically unexcelled. He reads disease like an open book.

Dr. Gates may be seen at the Ransfork hotel, between the hours of 9 a. m. and 6 p. m. Consult him and save a trip to the city. He will tell you just what the trouble is and what can be done for you. He has cured thousands; he can at least help you.

TAFT BANNER CUT DOWN.

Had Excited Wrath of Bryan Supporters in Lincoln, Neb.

Lincoln, Neb., July 9.—The Taft banner stretched across O street near Twelfth and which has excited the wrath of many Bryan supporters here, was cut down at midnight. The news of the occurrence caused no particular surprise, as threats of such action had been freely made.

The occurrence was not accompanied by any demonstration, as few people were on the streets. The work is believed to have been that of a single person, or at most two, operating from opposite sides of the street.

The wreckage of the banner caught in telephone and telegraph wires and is suspended in a limp bundle about ten feet above the street.

Sheriffs Elect Officers.

Minneapolis, July 9.—Red Wing, Minn., will entertain for two days the sheriffs of twenty states who have concluded their annual convention in Minneapolis after voting to change the name of the association from the "Interstate Sheriffs" to the "National Sheriffs Association." Before the convention adjourned William R. Kneel of Milwaukee was elected president; Charles W. Peters of Chicago first vice president; L. C. Smith of Seattle second vice president and C. A. Bacon of Marshall, Mo., third vice president. William A. Gerber of St. Paul was elected secretary and treasurer.

Heavy Loss From Fire.

New York, July 9.—A loss estimated at nearly $200,000 was suffered at College Point, L. I., by a fire which destroyed Zehden's hotel and Casino, Donder's Casino, and a number of small adjoining buildings. The Bethlem orphan asylum, sheltering over 600 children, was menaced for a time and there was a panic among the inmates. No one was injured.

SCORES REPUBLICANS

Address of Permanent Chairman Clayton at Democratic National Convention.

ROOSEVELT AND "MY POLICIES"

President Has Well Advertised Himself, Says Speaker.

Enormous Tribute Levied on the People by Trusts Behind Wall of High Protection—Democratic Duty.

Upon assuming the office of permanent chairman of the Democratic national convention, Representative Henry D. Clayton, of Alabama, said in part:

"Mr. Chairman and Fellow Democrats: Let me thank you for the honor you have conferred upon me. This is a Democratic year. Democratic ideas are now popular. Doctrines always taught by our party and scoffed at by our opponents are now urged as a gospel of their own. Measures and policies of Democratic origin are now advocated by the leaders of the Republican party. It is no longer anarchistic to declare private monopoly to be in defensible, or that the great transportation companies should be regulated and controlled by public law. A demand for the revision of the tariff is no longer a threat to destroy our industrial system. Trusts are not to be tolerated even by the Republican party. We need not now enlarge on the list of Republican admissions and promises for election purposes only. The Republican party has made marked progress in promises to the people and much greater progress in aiding selfish interests and special privileges. That party, guided by expediency and campaign necessity, would camp this year on Democratic ground. It is apparent that if recent progress is to continue it does not require a very great sweep of the imagination to see written into a Republican platform four years hence those immortal words of Thomas Jefferson, 'Equal rights to all, special privileges to none.'"

Republican Responsibility.

"The Republican party, having had full control of the federal government for more than a decade, must give an account of its stewardship. Its pretentious claims, largely without foundation, and largely exaggerated, will not suffice. Let honest investigation reveal the bad and defective laws passed by that party; vicious policies maintained; reforms rejected; the recent panic and its consequence; promises broken; dissimulation practiced; incompetency confessed by its failure to meet urgent public needs; and exhibiting this incompetency by the appointment of junketing commissions for the alleged purpose of advising that party, so long in control and of such boasted legislative wisdom, what legislation is required by the country. Against the Republican party, so dangerous and crafty, is a capable, determined, honest democracy, in sympathy with all just public demands, and confidently asking in its behalf the candid public judgment. To that judgment the issue must be committed, and we unhesitatingly submit our cause to that fine and true sense for the right that we know distinguishes the American people."

"My Policies."

"In this quadrennial contest Mr. Roosevelt has identified himself with Mr. Taft. Mr. Taft has identified himself with Mr. Roosevelt. The Republican party has inseparably identified the two together. To praise one you must praise the other; to criticize one is to criticize his pursuing shadow. And so, I must say, if it should appear to any one that in noting and denouncing abuses and failures on the part of the present administration any license is assumed, urge the impossibility of separating the present occupant of the White House from his own anointed one."

"It has been made evident in the pending campaign that the Republicans will seek to conjure with the name of Roosevelt and will rely upon the president's policies as a prized asset. The president has advertised himself and his policies with a frequency and ability that surpasses the best efforts of the shrewdest press agent. A distinguished Republican, a former cabinet officer, once publicly proclaimed the president to be the greatest exponent of the art of advertising the world has known. The country has been told and not allowed to forget that, in his opinion, his energies have been devoted to the accomplishment of many high purposes, and that if his work is yet incomplete it is so only because his undertakings were too vast to be carried to success during his term of office. 'My policies' must continue. The pretense is that the fight must go on under the leader designated by him until the last foe shall have surrendered or lies inglorious in the dust. The nomination of his would-be successor was largely accomplished by the use of official patronage and coarse machine methods, and has delighted the chief apostle of strenuousness, and, at the same time, has not perturbed the conscience of the one-time civil service reformer, now the boss, an adept in the bestowal of advice to the public and forgetful of all his resounding moral commonplaces. No fair-minded American could read the daily accounts of the recent political doings at Chicago without feeling mortification and regret; mortification that the president should have so abused his power in dictating to a great party his choice of a successor, and regret that that party should have submitted so cowardly to a humiliation that was as manifest as it was degrading."

ident should have so abused his power in dictating to a great party his choice of a successor, and regret that that party should have submitted so cowardly to a humiliation that was as manifest as it was degrading."

Mr. Clayton called attention to the failure of the Republican convention to insert a plank forbidding campaign contributions, quoted President Roosevelt's condemnation of the practice in his message of December, 1905. Injunctions and contempt of court were treated vigorously and several quotations from the message of President Roosevelt were given to show that the president had abandoned at Chicago the policies he had so vigorously urged in his message, adding:

"It is important to note that the act of June 2, 1886, was passed at the first session of the first congress that met under the first Democratic administration after the civil war and there labor received its first recognition from the government. One Republican administration had succeeded another for twenty-four years, and not one act was passed in the interest of labor or in acknowledgment of its right to fair and equal treatment. The Republicans enacted a tariff which enhanced the price of products that labor had made and capital owned, and they pretended to do this with a view of securing for labor higher wages. What they gave, however, was to the capitalist, and they trusted him to divide. That the increased profits of protected employers have made them able to pay the laboring man higher wages no one can doubt, but it remains for the saving grace of Almighty God so to touch their hearts as to make them willing to pay the higher wages."

The Tariff.

"The president and his party declare that a pre-election revision of the tariff would be unwise. This assertion has been repeated in advance of every election since the enactment of the Dingley law, and surely the country will not again be deceived by Republican promises to revise the tariff after the election. Their appeal to the people is this, 'give us another chance to make you a promise and the promise will be made.'"

"What does protection mean? Under the Republican policy of protection the people, the consumers, while paying a little over $300,000,000 per year into the treasury through import duties of foreign goods, pay over $1,250,000,000 a year in the enhanced price of home produced goods. Our domestic manufactures exceed our total imports by ten to one and they are nearly all protected. It is safe to say that the people pay at least $5 to the already wealthy beneficiaries of protectionism for every dollar that is paid into the treasury. Behind the wall of high protection, which in some cases is altogether prohibitive, the trusts levy enormous tribute on the people. This has amounted to not less than $10,000,000,000 in the last decade, not counting the amount paid to support the government. This money has come from the pockets of the farmer, the mechanic, the merchant, the professional man and the laborer, and has been poured into the coffers of the protected classes. More than two-thirds of the capital that derives benefit from protectionism belongs to the trusts. The Democrats will revise the tariff downward and in the interest of the tax payers, who are always forgotten by the Republican party. There must be revision and a gradual reduction of the tariff by the friends of tariff reduction for the common good, and not by the beneficiaries of its abuses, who justify use of the impost taxing power for the chief purpose of conferring privilege and profit upon the few at the expense of the many."

Trusts

"It is the shortest of steps from the tariff to the trusts. Let it be denied if they care to deny it, that the tariff is the real mother of the trusts. The president has made great pretense of destroying trusts. Let him tell of the result. In a message delivered to congress he said: 'The department of justice has for the last four years devoted more attention to the enforcement of anti-trust legislation than any thing else. Much has been accomplished; particularly marked has been the moral effect of the prosecutions; but it is increasingly evident that there will be a very insufficiently beneficial result in the way of economic changes. The successful prosecution of one device to evade the law immediately develops another device to accomplish the same purpose. What is needed is not sweeping prohibition of every arrangement, good or bad, which might tend to restrict competition, but such adequate supervision and regulation as will prevent any restriction of competition from being to the detriment of the public, as well as such supervision and regulation as will prevent other abuses, in no way connected with restriction of competition.'"

"This is an admission of failure; and one does not need to dwell on this admission further than to say that the imprisonment of those who violate the law would have had a more salutary effect than all that has been done or might have been done in this direction during his entire administration. "The Democratic party will strike down special privileges, whether granted through a high protective tariff, or granted to government chartered corporations by permission of law. All trusts owe their birth and their ability to continue existence to one or the other of these two forms of special privilege. No private monopoly, no business approximating private monopoly, in methods or in magnitude, can endure without one or the other."

The recent panic and the causes which led to the Aldrich bill were treated exhaustively, and a review given of the failures of congress to pass many important measures which were recommended by the president. Regarding the president's failure to call an extra session, Mr. Clayton pointed out that the Democratic leader of the house, authorized by all his party associates, repeatedly offered to support the measures, but that Republican support was not forthcoming and that it was simply a play for Republican votes. Federal usurpation of power was severely scored in the following language:

"The president is upon an eminence. If he violates the law, men everywhere know it. If he does not himself respect it to the full extent, he robs it of the reverence that might be willfully bestowed by others. In this same overbearing spirit he has placed and kept in office men who were not appointed by and with the advice and consent of the senate. He has influenced or attempted to influence courts and juries in the administration of public justice, not only by deciding who should and who should not be prosecuted, but by making known his personal feelings or sympathies between the prosecution and the accused. He has scolded judges for their interpretations of the law. It was therefore timely and appropriate that the Republican party at Chicago should have declared that it 'will uphold at all times the authority and integrity of the courts.'"

"He has constantly cried out for more power on the part of the federal government at the expense of the powers reserved to the states. In his speech at Harrisburg, in October, 1906, he told of easy methods for increasing the power of the federal government. The method provided in the constitution was too cumbersome, slow and uncertain for him. There he lets the country into the secret of his short cut to increasing the federal power in these words: 'We need through judicial interpretation and construction, to increase the power of the federal government.'"

"Of course many people are not surprised at any opinion the president utters; he has so many of them and has expressed them on so many conceivable and non-conceivable occasions. Now, Secretary Root is an able lawyer and a man of trained and deliberate habits of thought. Nothing shows more plainly the demoralization wrought by the president than the fact that this trained lawyer, in the very front rank of his great profession, should advocate changing the organic law of the union by construction to 'be found'; and to 'be found' by whom? By the very men who are to exercise the power. The insidious proposition of Mr. Root, following up the suggestion of his chief, is that where authority is not granted, which, in the opinion of the executive, ought to have been granted, this authority is none the less to be exercised, and if no other basis for it can be had, it is to be based upon construction to 'be found.' In other words if the constitution has not conferred the power upon the executive, then the power is to be vested in him by construction to 'be found' in a way not provided for by the organic law of the Union."

"Representative institutions must be preserved, our federal government of delegated and limited powers must be maintained in all its constitutional vigor, and each state must be preserved with all of its reserve powers, and its integrity and autonomy forever. Therein is the safety of the Union and the states, one indissoluble and the other indestructible."

Democratic Duty.

"We know there is a brighter prospect, if the love of country and liberty is still strong in the hearts of the American people; if an oath to support the constitution is now considered by them as binding; if the people are in earnest in their protests against the rule of insolent wealth, the unauthorized and baleful influence of corporations and the exactions of the trusts; if the manliness of the fathers have been transmitted to the sons; and the fourth of next March will mark the advent of the Gladsome Light of Democracy and the beginning of the return to constitutional government honestly and economically administered. To the banner we raise here we invite all citizens of our common country who revere the nobler traditions of the past and who deplore the grave aberrations of the present. Let us see to it that this standard shall once again float over a government resting on lasting foundations."

"Mr. Chairman, delegates and fellow countrymen: The time and the occasion in our national affairs impose a duty we cannot, if we would, evade. We must go out from this hall with one heart and a determination to put our loved ship of state on an even keel. That keel has been too long beating the air. We must bring it down into the deep and abiding waters of the constitution."

Cincinnati, Ohio, June 28, 1906.
MR. E. BURNHAM, Chicago, Ill.:
Dear Sir—I will make you the same statement I have made to a great many of my friends, that my beautiful hair is due solely to E. Burnham's Gray Hair Restorer and Hair and Scalp Tonic, which I began the use of some 15 years ago, having lost all of my hair through sickness. The scalp of my head was so diseased I had to have my head shaved. I began the use of your Hair Tonic and it benefited me so much an extent that now my hair is a thick, heavy dark mass, measuring 46 inches long, and is as beautiful and as heavy and has not more gray hairs than a girl of 20—my hair has grown 4 inches in six years and is still growing very fast. I am now 60 years old. I am making this statement believing that it is only just to you and the public that they should know and be advised of the real merits of your hair preparations. Respectfully,

Mrs. Fattie Richards

E. Burnham has found the cause and cure for baldness, dandruff and other scalp infections. The scalp being one of the weakest parts of the cranium, blood becomes sluggish and the follicles or the roots of the hair become impaired and diseased from want of nourishment.

E. Burnham's Hair and Scalp Tonic overcomes this by feeding and strengthening the hair follicles, putting the scalp in a healthy and normal condition, giving the hair new life, stopping it from falling out and removing dandruff and other scalp infections.

SCORES REPUBLICANS

Address of Permanent Chairman Clayton at Democratic National Convention.

ROOSEVELT AND "MY POLICIES"

President Has Well Advertised Himself, Says Speaker.

Enormous Tribute Levied on the People by Trusts Behind Wall of High Protection—Democratic Duty.

Upon assuming the office of permanent chairman of the Democratic national convention, Representative Henry D. Clayton, of Alabama, said in part:

"Mr. Chairman and Fellow Democrats: Let me thank you for the honor you have conferred upon me. This is a Democratic year. Democratic ideas are now popular. Doctrines always taught by our party and scoffed at by our opponents are now urged as a gospel of their own. Measures and policies of Democratic origin are now advocated by the leaders of the Republican party. It is no longer anathema to declare private monopoly to be indefensible, or that the great transportation companies should be regulated and controlled by public law. A demand for the revision of the tariff is no longer a threat to destroy our industrial system. Trusts are not to be tolerated even by the Republican party. We need not now enlarge on the list of Republican admissions and promises for election purposes only. The Republican party has made marked progress in promises to the people and much greater progress in aiding selfish interests and special privileges. That party, guided by expediency and campaign necessity, would camp this year on Democratic ground. It is apparent that if recent progress is to continue it does not require a very great sweep of the imagination to see written into a Republican platform four years hence those immortal words of Thomas Jefferson, 'Equal rights to all, special privileges to none.'

Republican Responsibility.

"The Republican party, having had full control of the federal government for more than a decade, must give an account of its stewardship. Its pretentious claims, largely without foundation, and largely exaggerated, will not suffice. Let honest investigation reveal the bad and defective laws passed by that party; vicious policies maintained; reforms rejected; the recent panic and its consequence; promises broken; dissimulation practiced; incompetency confessed by its failure to meet urgent public needs; and exhibiting this incompetency by the appointment of junketing commissions for the alleged purpose of advising that party, so long in control and of such boasted legislative wisdom, what legislation is required by the country. Against the Republican party, so dangerous and crafty, is a capable, determined, honest democracy, in sympathy with all just public demands, and confidently asking in its behalf the candid public judgment. To that judgment the issue must be committed, and we unhesitatingly submit our cause to that fine and true sense for the right that we know distinguishes the American people.

"In this quadrennial contest Mr. Roosevelt has identified himself with Mr. Taft. Mr. Taft has identified himself with Mr. Roosevelt. The Republican party has inseparably identified the two together. To praise one you must praise the other; to criticize one is to criticize his pursuing shadow. And so, I must say, if it should appear to any one that in noting and denouncing abuses and failures on the part of the present administration any license is assumed, urge the impossibility of separating the present occupant of the White House from his own anointed one.

"It has been made evident in the pending campaign that the Republicans will seek to conjure with the name of Roosevelt and will rely upon the president's policies as a prized asset. The president has advertised himself and his policies with a frequency and ability that surpasses the best efforts of the shrewdest press agent. A distinguished Republican, a former cabinet officer, once publicly proclaimed the president to be the greatest exponent of the art of advertising the world has known. The country has been told and not allowed to forget that, in his opinion, his energies have been devoted to the accomplishment of many high purposes, and that if his work is yet incomplete it is so only because his undertakings were too vast to be carried to success during his term of office. 'My policies' must continue. The pretense is that the fight must go on under the leader designated by him until the last foe shall have surrendered or lies inglorious in the dust. The nomination of his would-be successor was largely accomplished by the use of official patronage and coarse machine methods, and has delighted the chief apostle of strenuousness, and, at the same time, has not perturbed the conscience of the one-time civil service reformer, now the boss, an adept in the bestowal of advice to the public and forgetful of all his resounding moral commonplace. No fair-minded American could read the daily accounts of the recent political doings at Chicago without feeling mortification and regret; mortification that the pres-

Mr. Clayton called attention to the failure of the Republican convention to insert a plank forbidding campaign contributions, quoted President Roosevelt's condemnation of the practice in his message of December, 1905. Injunctions and contempt of court were treated vigorously and several quotations from the message of President Roosevelt were given to show that the president had abandoned at Chicago the policies he had so vigorously urged in his message, adding:

"It is important to note that the act of June 2, 1886, was passed at the first session of the first congress that met under the first Democratic administration after the civil war and there labor received its first recognition from the government. One Republican administration had succeeded another for twenty-four years, and not one act was passed in the interest of labor or in acknowledgment of its right to fair and equal treatment. The Republicans enacted a tariff which enhanced the price of products that labor had made and capital owned, and they pretended to do this with a view of securing for labor higher wages. What they gave, however, was to the capitalist, and they trusted him to divide. That the increased profits of protected employers have made them able to pay the laboring man higher wages no one can doubt, but it remains for the saving grace of Almighty God so to touch their hearts as to make them willing to pay the higher wages.

"Among the contributions that went to make up the monument that this great man, Grover Cleveland, built in the respect and affection of his countrymen, few are more striking than his almost instant recognition, as evidenced by the act of 1886, of the same and just demands of labor on the lawmaking power. Under him Democracy blazed the way and now remains the unflinching champion of every sound reform in this direction. Immunity from law we promise nobody, immunity from oppression from its very infancy the Democratic party has been dedicated to establish and secure.

The Tariff.

"The president and his party declare that a pre-election revision of the tariff would be unwise. This assertion has been repeated in advance of every election since the enactment of the Dingley law, and surely the country will not again be deceived by Republican promises to revise the tariff after the election. Their appeal to the people is this, 'give us another chance to make you a promise and the promise will be made.'

"What does protection mean? Under the Republican policy of protection the people, the consumers, while paying a little over $300,000,000 per year into the treasury through import duties of foreign goods, pay over $1,250,000,000 a year in the enhanced price of home produced goods. Our domestic manufactures exceed our total imports by ten to one and they are nearly all protected. It is safe to say that the people pay at least $5 to the already wealthy beneficiaries of protectionism for every dollar that is paid into the treasury. Behind the wall of high protection, which in some cases is also together prohibitive, the trusts levy enormous tribute on the people. This has amounted to not less than $10,000,000,000 in the last decade, not counting the amount paid to support the government. This money has come from the pockets of the farmer, the mechanic, the merchant, the professional man and the laborer, and has been poured into the coffers of the protected classes. More than two-thirds of the capital that derives benefit from protectionism belongs to the trusts. The Democrats will revise the tariff downward and in the interest of the tax payers, who are always forgotten by the Republican party. There must be revision and a gradual reduction of the tariff by the friends of tariff reduction for the common good, and not by the beneficiaries of its abuses, who justify use of the impost taxing power for the chief purpose of conferring privilege and profit upon the few at the expense of the many.

Trusts

"It is the shortest of steps from the tariff to the trusts. Let it be denied if they care to deny it, that the tariff is the real mother of the trusts. The president has made great pretense of destroying trusts. Let him tell of the result. In a message delivered to congress he said: 'The department of justice has for the last four years devoted more attention to the enforcement of anti-trust legislation than anything else. Much has been accomplished; particularly marked has been the moral effect of the prosecutions; but it is increasingly evident that there will be a very insufficiently beneficial result in the way of economic changes. The successful prosecution of one device to evade the law immediately develops another device to accomplish the same purpose. What is needed is not sweeping prohibition of every arrangement, good or bad, which might tend to restrict competition, but such adequate supervision and regulation as will prevent any restriction of competition from being to the detriment of the public, as well as such supervision and regulation as will prevent other abuses, in no way connected with restriction of competition.'

"This is an admission of failure; and one does not need to dwell on this admission further than to say that the imprisonment of those who violate the law would have had a more salutary effect than all that has been done or might have been done in this direction during his entire administration. "The Democratic party will strike down special privileges, whether granted through a high protective tariff, or granted to government chartered corporations by permission of law. All trusts owe their birth and their ability to continue existence to one or the other of these two forms of special privilege. No private monopoly, no business approximating private monopoly, in methods or in magnitude, can endure without one or the other."

The recent panic and the causes which led to the Aldrich bill were treated exhaustively, and a review given of the failures of congress to pass many important measures which were recommended by the president. Regarding the president's failure to call an extra session, Mr. Clayton pointed out that the Democratic leader of the house, authorized by all his party associates, repeatedly offered to support the measures, but that Republican support was not forthcoming, and that it was simply a play for Republican votes. Federal usurpation of power was severely scored in the following language:

"The president is upon an eminence. If he violates the law, men everywhere know it. If he does not himself respect it to the full extent, he robs it of the reverence that might be willfully bestowed by others. In this same overbearing spirit he has placed and kept in office men who were not appointed by and with the advice and consent of the senate. He has influenced or attempted to influence courts and juries in the administration of public justice, not only by deciding who should and who should not be prosecuted, but by making known his personal feelings or sympathies between the prosecution and the accused. He has scolded judges for their interpretations of the law. It was therefore timely and appropriate that the Republican party at Chicago should have declared that it will uphold at all times the authority and integrity of the courts."

"He has constantly cried out for more power on the part of the federal government at the expense of the powers reserved to the states. In his speech at Harrisburg, in October, 1905, he told of easy methods for increasing the power of the federal government. The method provided in the constitution was too cumbersome, slow and uncertain for him. There he lets the country into the secret of his short cut to increasing the federal power in these words: 'We need through judicial interpretation and construction, to increase the power of the federal government.'

"Mr. Root, whom the president is said to have called, 'my secretary' followed this Harrisburg expression by a speech at New York, in which he said: 'Sooner or later construction will be found to vest power where it will be exercised by the national government.'

"Of course many people are not surprised at any opinion the president utters; he has so many of them and has expressed them on so many conceivable and non-conceivable occasions. Now, Secretary Root is an able lawyer and a man of trained and deliberate habits of thought. Nothing shows more plainly the demoralization wrought by the president than the fact that this trained lawyer, in the very front rank of his great profession, should advocate changing the organic law of the union by construction to 'be found'; and to 'be found' by whom? By the very men who are to exercise the power. The insidious proposition of Mr. Root, following up the suggestion of his chief, is that where authority is not granted, which, in the opinion of the executive, ought to have been granted, this authority is, none the less to be exercised, and if no other basis for it can be had, it is to be based upon construction to 'be found.' In other words if the constitution has not conferred the power upon the executive, then the power is to be vested in him by construction to 'be found' in a way not provided for by the organic law of the Union.

"Representative institutions must be preserved, our federal government of delegated and limited powers must be maintained in all its constitutional vigor, and each state must be preserved with all of its reserve powers, and its integrity and autonomy for ever. Therein is the safety of the Union and the states, one indissoluble and the other indestructible.

Democratic Duty.

"We know there is a brighter prospect, if the love of country and liberty is still strong in the hearts of the American people; if an oath to support the constitution is now considered by them as binding; if the people are in earnest in their protests against the rule of insolent wealth, the unauthorized and baleful influence of corporations and the exactions of the trusts; if the manliness of the fathers have been transmitted to the sons; and the fourth of next March will mark the advent of the Gladsome Light of Democracy and the beginning of the return to constitutional government honestly and economically administered. To the banner we raise here we invite all citizens of our common country who revere the nobler traditions of the past and who deplore the grave aberrations of the present. Let us see to it that this standard shall once again float over a government resting on lasting foundations.

"Mr. Chairman, delegates and fellow countrymen: The time and the occasion in our national affairs impose a duty we cannot, if we would, evade. We must go out from this hall with one heart and a determination to put our loved ship of state on an even keel. That keel has been too long beating the air. We must bring it down into the deep and abiding waters of the constitution."

Read What She Says:

Cincinnati, Ohio, June 8th, 1906.
MR. E. BURNHAM, Chicago, Ill.:
Dear Sir—I will make you the same statement I have made to a great many of my friends, that my beautiful hair is due solely to E. Burnham's Gray Hair Restorer and Hair and Scalp Tonic, which I began the use of some 15 years ago, having lost all of my hair through sickness. The scalp of my head was so diseased I had to have my head shaved. I began the use of your Hair Tonic and it benefited me to such an extent that now my hair is a thick, heavy dark mass, measuring 40 inches long, and is as beautiful and as heavy and has not more gray hairs than a girl of 20—my hair has grown 4 inches in six years and is still growing very fast. I am now 50 years old. I am making this statement believing that it is only just to you and the public that they should know and be advised of the real merits of your hair preparations. Respectfully,

Mrs. Hattie R. Shado
No. 582 Carlisle Ave., Cincinnati, O.

E. Burnham has found the cause and cure for baldness, dandruff and other scalp infections. The scalp being one of the weakest parts of the cranium, blood comes sluggish and the follicles or the roots of the hair become impaired and diseased from want of nourishment.

E. Burnham's Hair and Scalp Tonic overcomes this by feeding and strengthening the hair follicles, putting the scalp in a healthy and normal condition, giving the hair new life, stopping it from falling out and removing dandruff and other scalp infections.
